Georgia Tech

Master of Science in Quantitative and Computational Finance

100% of graduating students seeking employment were placed.

Average total compensation in 2017 was over $110k with the highest being

$175k

Email info@qcf.gatech.edu to schedule a phone or Skype call to discuss your candidacy.

Now accepting applications for Fall 2019!

www.qcf.gatech.edu

Learn the quantitative/analytical and computational skills needed to to work in:

- investment banking
- sales and trading
- risk management
- financial technology
- data science

Alumni Network extends to:
Goldman Sachs, JP Morgan, Blackrock, Citidel, Morgan Stanley, Bank of America, EY, and beyond.....

#13 QuantNet's ranking of Financial Engineering Programs