

We develop students with a passion to grow in their service to North Carolina and the world.

OUR MISSION

The Caldwell Fellows develop the next generation of self-aware, globally minded humans who engage in creative, conscientious leadership.

We embrace service-living by strengthening the part of ourselves attached to something larger, whether family, community, nation, or world; to see that our lives are inextricably bound up with the welfare of others.

We welcome people from all walks of life to apply the principles of servant-leadership to their vocations, taking seriously the belief that, "to whom much has been given, much is required."

Experiential Education

DEVELOP THE WHOLE YOU | The Caldwell Fellows program is rooted in vigorous experiential learning designed to promote deliberate psychological development. Our program pillars form a foundation of knowledge and practice to prepare us for a lifetime of serving the greater good.

Servant-Leadership

Study how service is integral to impactful leadership by developing self-awareness and interpersonal skills through yearly retreats and a 3-hour Honors credit seminar in leadership development.

Service-Learning

Serve North Carolina and the world through sustained relationships with community partners rooted in place and purpose. Reflect on the impact of your service, and the impact service has on you.

Personal Development

Develop the 'whole you' to serve and lead with greater clarity. Enrichment stipends enable exploration beyond grades and career including wilderness expeditions, travel abroad, and visits to alumni in U.S. city centers.

Professional Development

Examine your talents and abilities to craft an authentic self that aligns intention with ambition. Engage in leadership training at the internationally acclaimed Center for Creative Leadership in Greensboro, NC.

Resilience Building

Establish holistic wellbeing of body, mind, and spirit in community. Monthly dinner seminars and robust friendships lay the groundwork for tackling life's challenges with integrity.
